

Outdoor Enthusiast Drive:

This map shows just a few of the major points of interest as you are cruising through the Black Hills. This route is about 67 miles and to take it all in we would suggest making it a day trip. If you are a motorcyclist this drive is one of the more difficult in the Black Hills area with a lot of hairpin turns and curves while winding your way through the most amazing scenery in the world!

Here are the highlights!

Crazy Horse Memorial offers something for everyone with large museums featuring an extensive collection of Native American Artifacts, arts and crafts for the kids, seminars, laser light shows (at night), regular blasts on the Mountain, gift shop and restaurant.

Mount Coolidge Fire Tower- Is the highest point in Custer State Park and is still actively used today. Visitors have a panoramic view of the surrounding Black Hills. See if you can find Crazy Horse & Mount Rushmore while a top the lookout!

Wildlife Loop- Is a back road here in the Black Hills. It use to be a main highway before more direct routes were created. This picturesque drive will take you around Custer State Park where you are very likely to see buffalo, deer, horses, antelope and much more!

Keystone- Originally a mining town in the heart of the hills Keystone has stood the test of time. Walk down the famous downtown promenade, have some homemade taffy or pop into the Ruby House for some dinner there is fun to be had on every corner of this gem of a town.

Mount Rushmore- As you wind through the highway leading to and from the National Monument you will see the beautiful work of Gutzon Borglum peaking through the trees. Mt. Rushmore depicts four United States presidents Washington, Jefferson, Roosevelt and Lincoln.
